NEW QUESTION: 1

You work as a Network Administrator for ABC Inc.

The company's network contains five Windows 2003 servers and ninety Windows XP Professional client computers. You want to view all the incoming requests to an Internet Information Services (IIS) server and allow only requests that comply with a rule set, created by you, to be processed. You also want to detect the intrusion attempts by recognizing the strange characters in a URL on a Web server.

What will you do to accomplish the task?

- A. Use the URL Scan tool.
- B. Use the HFNETCHK utility.
- C. Configure a connection to the SQL database by using the RELOG command-line utility.
- D. Use the Remote Desktop Protocol (RDP).

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION: 2

After reviewing UDLD status on switch ports, an engineer notices that the switch LEDs are green.

Which statement describes what this indicates about the status of the port?

- A. UDLD moved into aggressive mode after inconsistent acknowledgements were detected.
- B. The bidirectional status of "unknown" indicates that the port will go into the disabled state because it stopped receiving UDLD packets from its neighbor.
- C. The UDLD port is placed in the "unknown" state for 5 seconds until the next UDLD packet is received on the interface.
- D. The port is fully operational and no known issues are detected.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

Explanation:

By default, UDLD is disabled on all interfaces. We can enable UDLD globally on the device, or individually on specific interfaces with the command `udld port`. This enables UDLD in normal mode.

It would be prohibitively difficult to coordinate the configuration of UDLD on both ends of a link at the same time, so when UDLD is first enabled and does not detect a neighbor the link state is considered unknown, which is not necessarily an error condition. The port will remain operational during this time.

When UDLD

is finally enabled on the other end, the status will transition to bidirectional.
