NEW QUESTION: 1

You are creating a web worker for an HTML5 application.

The following tasks must be performed from within the web worker:

- * Register an event listener for the web worker
- * Start and stop the web worker

You need to define a function that performs the required tasks.

Which line of code should you use? (To answer, drag the appropriate line or lines of code to the correct location or locations. Each line of code may be used once, more than once, or not at all. You may need to drag the split bar between panes or scroll to view content.)

Answer:

Explanation:

Explanation

- * `addEventListener`

The `addEventListener()` method attaches an event handler to the specified element.

In context of a worker, both `self` and `this` refer to the global scope. The worker can either add an event listener for the message event, or it can define the `onmessage` handler to listen for any messages sent by the parent thread.

- * `postmessage`

Pass a message to the worker.

- * `close()`

Terminating Workers

Workers are resource-intensive; they are OS-level threads. Therefore, you do not want to create a large number of worker threads, and you should terminate the web worker after it completes its work. Workers can terminate themselves, like this:

self.close();
