- B. Option D
- C. Option C
- D. Option A
- E. Option B

Answer: A,C,E

Explanation:

By default, switches send the output from system messages and debug privileged EXEC commands to a logging process. The logging process controls the distribution of logging messages to various destinations, such as the logging buffer (on RAM), terminal lines (console terminal), or a UNIX syslog server, depending on your configuration. The process also sends messages to the console.

Note: Syslog messages can be written to a file in Flash memory although it is not a popular place to use. We can configure this feature with the command logging file flash:filename.

NEW QUESTION: 3

You are developing a solution that requires serverless code execution in Azure. The solution has two functions that must run in a specific order. You need to ensure that the second function can use the output from the first function. How should you complete the code? To answer, select the appropriate options in the answer area.
NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point.
