Answer: D

Explanation:

Explanation

Paravirtualization works differently from the full virtualization. It doesn't need to simulate the hardware for the virtual machines. The hypervisor is installed on a physical server (host) and a guest OS is installed into the environment. Virtual guests aware that it has been virtualized, unlike the full virtualization (where the guest doesn't know that it has been virtualized) to take advantage of the functions.

In full virtualization, guests will issue a hardware calls but in paravirtualization, guests will directly communicate with the host (hypervisor) using drivers.
