NEW QUESTION: 3

What is a technique used in the performance reporting process?

- A. Expert judgment
- B. Status review meetings
- C. Stakeholder analysis
- D. Project management methodology

Answer: B

Explanation:

Performance Reporting is the process for "collecting and distributing performance information" like "status reporting, progress measurement, and forecasting" (comp. PMBOK3, p. 221): On the base of the collected performance information concerning scope, schedule, cost and quality this process generates the reports which are distributed to the stakeholders (comp. PMBOK3, p. 231). Basically one can determine four types of reports:

Forecast reports for describing future trends

Progress reports for describing trends from past to present

Status reports for describing actual status

Variance reports for describing differences between the planned baseline and the real data
