NEW QUESTION: 1
Which of the following steps are required to configure SAML 2.0 for federated access to AWS? (Choose two.)
A. Create IAM users for each identity provider (IdP) user to allow access to the AWS environment.
B. Grant identity provider (IdP) users the necessary IAM permissions to be able to log in to the AWS environment.
C. Define assertions that map the company's identity provider (IdP) users to IAM roles.
D. Create IAM roles with a trust policy that lists the SAML provider as the principal.
E. Create IAM users, place them in a group named SAML, and grant them necessary IAM permissions.
Answer: C,D
Explanation:
https://docs.aws.amazon.com/IAM/latest/UserGuide/id_roles_providers_enable-console-saml.html B is in Step 5: In your organization's IdP, you define assertions that map users or groups in your organization to the IAM roles.
C is in step 4: In IAM, you create one or more IAM roles. In the role's trust policy, you set the SAML provider as the principal, which establishes a trust relationship between your organization and AWS. The role's permission policy establishes what users from your organization are allowed to do in AWS.

NEW QUESTION: 2
You need to design a solution that meets the refactoring requirements.
Which type of object should you include in the solution?
A. A CLR stored procedure
B. A T-SQL stored procedure
C. A table-valued function
D. A scalar function
Answer: C
Explanation:
Explanation/Reference:
Explanation:
From scenario: The results from the query must be able to be joined to other queries.

User-defined functions that return a table data type can be powerful alternatives to views. These functions are referred to as table-valued functions. A table-valued user-defined function can be used where table or view expressions are allowed in Transact-SQL queries. While views are limited to a single SELECT statement, user-defined functions can contain additional statements that allow more powerful logic than is possible in views.
A table-valued user-defined function can also replace stored procedures that return a single result set. The table returned by a user-defined function can be referenced in the FROM clause of a Transact-SQL statement, but stored procedures that return result sets cannot.
