NEW QUESTION: 2

You have an Exchange Server 2013 organization that contains a server named Server1. Server1 has an IP address of 10.1.100.16 and is configured to use a default gateway of 10.1.100.1.

You deploy a hardware load balancer that is configured to use the IP addresses of 192.168.101.31 and 10.1.100.31.

A user named User1 has a client computer that has an IP address of 102.168.101.201. User1 reports that he cannot view his mailbox by using Outlook Web App.

When you review the IIS logs on Server1, you discover the following information:

```
#Fields: date time cs-method cs-uri-stem s-port c-ipcs(Referer) sc-status
2013-01-09 00:08:55 POST /owa/ ev.owa2 443 192.168.101.201 https://owa.fabrikam.com/owa/ 200
```

You need to ensure that User1 can access his mailbox successfully from Outlook Web App. What are two possible ways to achieve this goal? (Each correct answer presents a complete solution.

Choose two.)

- A. Configure the computer of User1 to ignore response headers.
- B. Configure the hardware load balancer to use the same certificate as the certificate used on Server1.
- C. Modify the default gateway of Server1.

D. Configure the hardware load balancer to use source NAT (SNAT).

Answer: C,D

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

Explanation:

Source NAT

When using source NAT, the client IP address is not passed to the load balanced server. The insertion of the Client IP address into the header allows the servers to see the IP that made the connection They are then able to return the requested information correctly

B

Configuring the hardware load balancer to use source NAT (SNAT) will resolve the problem.

D

Changing the default gateway of Server1 to that of the hardware load balancer will ensure that the connection to Server1 will be returned via the network load balancer and out to User1 NOT

A

Not a certificate problem

NOT C

NOT a http response header issue

HTTP response header

The information, in the form of a text record, that a Web server sends back to a clients browser in response to receiving an HTTP request.

The response header contains the date, size and type of file that the server is sending back to the client and also data about the server itself.

The header is attached to the files being sent back to the client.
